ASMIRT International Travel Scholarship (Financial Voting Members)

1. Program Rationale

What is the ASMIRT International Travel Scholarship?

The ASMIRT International Travel Scholarship is offered annually to professional members who have held professional membership for greater than 12 months. The aim of the scholarship is to encourage and promote professional development. Up to two scholarships will be awarded annually in the discipline of Medical Imaging / Nuclear Medicine and Radiation Therapy. ASMIRT Nuclear Medicine members are welcome to apply. The recipients of the scholarships will have up to eighteen (18) months following notification from the Board of Directors of ASMIRT of their successful application to use the funding.

Each scholarship is to the value of $5,000 and can be used by the recipient to assist with covering the cost of overseas travel to participate in education, training and cultural opportunities. The aim of the scholarship is to allow for personal and professional development of the practitioner and to encourage the practitioner upon their return to Australia to contribute to the professional body of knowledge.

Who is eligible to apply for an International Travel Scholarship?

The ASMIRT International Travel Scholarship is offered annually to professional members who have held professional membership for greater than 12 months. All applicants are advised that they need to be in a position to take up the scholarship within the eighteen (18) months. Successful applicants must maintain membership of ASMIRT for the duration of the scholarship.

What are the expectations of me when I return to Australia?

Upon return to Australia the successful candidates will be required to submit an article reflecting on their experiences for publication in an ASMIRT publication. Presentations of the participants’ experiences would also be welcomed at branch meetings, student paper days or as a formal paper presentation at the national ASMIRT conference, although this is not a requirement.

2. Program Framework

What can I use the ASMIRT International Travel Scholarship for?

The ASMIRT International Travel Scholarship may be used in a number of modes to assist the recipients to participate in international education, training and cultural opportunities. The modes that you may choose from include, using the scholarship to:

- Gain experience in overseas radiography/nuclear medicine or radiation therapy practices

3.8 Frequently Asked Questions

What should I do if the conference program is unavailable when making my application?

If the conference program for an event that you are planning to attend is unavailable when you submit your application, you can forward the program for the current year’s event or a recent past conference. It is recognised that sometimes conferences are only biennial.

Eg: If you are applying to attend UKRC in 2018, and the program was not available, you should forward the program from 2017 with your application as an example of the conference format.

What evidence should I submit, if I have submitted to present at a conference, and have not had confirmation of abstract acceptance?

If you have submitted an abstract to a conference for consideration, you will have received an email confirming that your abstract has been uploaded for review. You can print this email and attach to your application, or save it as a pdf as part of your emailed application.

What should I do if I am unable to obtain a letter of support from my employer?

If you do not have confirmed employment with your current employer in the years following your application for this scholarship, you should simply state this in your application cover letter. In this instance, you will not need to include a letter of support from your employer; however it is still a requirement that you include three professional references with your application.

Does the program that I am planning to attend need to be specifically related to the Medical Radiation Sciences?

If you were applying for the International Travel Scholarship to attend a conference or a training program that is related to your field of work, but not specifically in medical imaging, nuclear medicine and radiation therapy, your cover letter will need to outline the rationale and benefits of your use of the scholarship.

Eg: The scholarship may be to assist you to attend / present and participate in a conference that is related to areas within the medical radiation science space such as clinical education, PACS, information technology, health management.
